Board of Directors – Biographies
2024-2025

Judith Miller Jones (President)

Judy retired from a career in health policy and education at the National Health Policy Forum at George Washington University. For more than 30 years, the Forum was renowned for its off-the-record briefings, publications and site visits to assist congressional staff and high-level executive agency officials gain un-biased and practical information for their decision-making. Locally, Ms. Jones has served on the Board of the Jefferson County Health Department and, with her husband Rev. Stan Jones, helped to start Good Shepherd Interfaith Caregivers, still serving the elderly and disabled after more than 25 years. She remains very active on various boards and is especially involved in health and related activities through her work with Health & Human Services Collaborative in the Eastern Panhandle and the Eastern West Virginia Community Foundation. A member of the Institutional Review Board at Shepherd University (which oversees privacy and the protection of human subjects data), she also serves on the boards of Panhandle Home Health, Inc. and the Shenandoah Valley Medical Center Foundation. At one time, Ms. Jones was an instrument-rated pilot; today she is an amateur artist and an avid gardener. Judy joined the Friends of Music board in 2016 with a love of music and a desire for more students to prosper from a well-rounded education, including exposure to the arts and music.

Heidi Johnston (Vice President)

Heidi brings a variety of talents to the Board as an independent business owner, freelance writer, and experienced volunteer. She has worked in real estate sales since 2014, honing her skills in customer service, marketing, negotiation, and problem solving. In the preceding decade, she wrote grant applications, newsletters, and feature stories for local nonprofits, municipal offices, and print media. As a grant writer, she secured more than $2 million for clients in arts & culture, social services, and animal welfare. Living in Ipswich, Massachusetts until 2019, she served for 9 years on the Town's Planning Board, where she chaired monthly meetings, oversaw public hearings, enacted local zoning bylaws, and recommended policy changes. Heidi earned a Master in Business from the University of Massachusetts and a Bachelor in Science from Bates College in Maine. She holds fond memories of her childhood music lessons, marching band rehearsals, and orchestra performances.

Barbara Zingg (Treasurer)

Barbara is an award-winning math teacher who did her undergraduate study in Mathematics, Education and Theatre at Mary Washington College (now University) in Fredericksburg, Virginia. She holds two Masters Degrees in Curriculum Design for Online Learning, and Curriculum and Instruction from Capella University and Concordia University respectively. She teaches full-time in the mathematics department at Washington High School and has received numerous accolades including Secondary Math Teacher of the Year from the West Virginia Council for Teachers of Mathematics. She frequently consults for the West Virginia Department of Education on a wide variety of topics relating to many areas of education in the mountain state. In addition to her 28 years of teaching, Barbara owns and operates a consulting firm, APCS, which provides multi-layered administrative support for a mental health counseling service with offices in West Virginia and a compensation consulting specialist out of New Lenox, IL. She has been married for 47 years to retired special educator, Rob, and has two grown children. Her mother, Betty Lou Bryant was instrumental in the formation and growth of Friends of Music throughout its history. When Betty Lou passed away at 91, Barbara accepted a position on the board as a tribute to her mother's love and devotion to beautiful music at a local level.

Piper Dankworth (Secretary)

Before retiring, Piper Dankworth had a 26 year career as a fundraising executive for both regional and national foundations. She held positions as Development Director for the Visiting Nurses Association (VNA) of Northern VA,

Inova Health System Foundation and Development Officer for the Inova Mount Vernon Hospital and Inova Community Health. Piper's career in healthcare fundraising rose to the national level when she became the Director of Development for the National Osteoporosis Foundation (NOF). She left NOF in 2011 to become the Executive Director of the JDRF Greater Chesapeake Chapter, raising funds for Type 1 diabetes research. In addition to serving on the board of FoM, as a transplant recipient herself, Piper does much work in the heart transplant community. She serves on the Patient Family Advisory Council for Inova Heart and Vascular Institute; participates in the Heart Failure Collaboratory Think Tank, and mentors heart transplant patients in and out of the hospital. She is also a member of Women Investing in Shepherd (WISH), a local giving circle that supports innovation activities at Shepherd University and local non-profits. Piper joined the Friends of Music Board in 2018.

Tina Burns

Tina is Director of Resource Development for Shenandoah Community Health (SCH), where she is dedicated to the fundraising and promotional efforts of Shenandoah Community Health Foundation in support of the health center. She is active in the area's non-profit community, collaborating on initiatives that promote health and wellness, with an emphasis on increasing access to healthcare, especially for the underserved. During her tenure with SCH, she has filled a variety of roles, initially with the migrant health program, capitalizing on her language skills. Tina received her Bachelor of Arts degree in Spanish from Mary Baldwin College, now University, and a Master of Arts degree in Spanish from Middlebury College in Vermont and in Madrid, Spain. She serves on the local governing board of the Health, Science, & Technology Academy, the Executive Committee of Morgan County Starting Points, and the tri-county Steering Committee of the Health and Human Services Collaborative.
